Report on WFTL Activity Tuesday, March 24, 2015 Theology Walks under the Rain

The morning of March 24, martyrdom anniversary of Mons. Romero in 1984, was dedicated to the latest preparations and a few visits to the city of Tunis. At 3:00 pm with two large banners and a lot of folders and placards, the delegation of the World Forum on Theology and Liberation joined the hundreds of groups that made the opening walk of the WSF 2015. Due to the attack carried out on March 19, local authorities set up a strong security scheme to accompany the march. All the people who were present knew what had happened, but came to demonstrate their confidence in a world of peace. The delegation of WFTL consciously wanted to take part, confident that it would be safe. The rain, lightning and thunder were the hardest test to reckon with in the course of approximately four kilometers. Moreover, it was the first contact with other participants: photographs, quick interviews, explanations, the meaning of the acronym WFTL and some sympathizers. The destination of the march was the Bardo Museum, where the recent killings occurred. The WFTL delegation spent some time there but due to communication and organizational problems, did not have information about the opening speeches and ceremonies. So many people, and among them also the WFTL delegation, returned to their hotels and homes, still encountering many groups arriving along the marching route. Everything suggests that the WSF 2015 will offer good opportunities for reflecting theologically on an "other possible world".
